I have this js function: function save() { $.post('Save.php', $(form).serialize(), function(data) { $('#loading').hide(); $('#stored').html(data); }, 'json'); } and I want to replace $('#stored').html(data); with something like: $('#stored').html(data? "saved" : "not saved"); But on first run of this function, saved and not saved in #stored will be displayed. Later when submit is pressed, all elements are stored in database. So, I need to prevent saving this fields of form on first run. Is there any way to do this? Thank you. A: What you are trying to do is not possible with the ternary operator. It would require a loop to find all the fields in the form and then remove the ones that are already stored. This is what every other RDBMS does when you ask it to update a record. You can use simple if instead and change ba244e880a
