New features. . . you and your family. I have several forms of diabetes and am in your spot right now with a family member who has high sugars, low sugars, high carbs, low carbs, and they're all 'kind of' high at the same time - they're all 'kind of' high. We've tried many different forms of insulin, multiple different brands of carbs and they are all over the place. I also have a niece who has an autoimmune insulin deficit (which I don't understand) so when I find my sister's insulin form from another care provider who truly understands diabetes - and uses carbs and insulin to balance - I want to share it with her! Thanks for sharing the diabetes info - and I think I have related to you - it's just that there are times when I feel the world could just have a little less of me - then I think about all of the many people who suffer from this disease and the lack of resources - and I want to help. Hi Trish I am so glad we found your site. I have been taking care of my mom since she was diagnosed with Type 1 in Nov last year. I am sorry to hear about your uncle's condition. I can understand where you are coming from. I think in a way we all want to be the one helping our family. You always come out on top as the awesome caregiver. I know that I would prefer someone else if it wasn't for you. Thank you for being there! Emails keep getting turned over as spam and I can't get comments to post and on wordpress, I can't even log in to write this comment. Such a fun day today and they're all dead in here. Thanks for the lovely words! And I have noticed that too - there's always something happening and
