The issue is that my very first post ever (at ATS) was pulled at the same time my account was suspended. This is my first time on ATS and it started out with finding out all about Goatblog. I've had a lot of fun reading. I'm no expert but i think this is a great way to find out more about the world of animal medicine. I've left a few comments, and i've been a guest on a couple of threads. I've had a lot of fun with all the folks here. So now my issue. As I've said i've been out and about on the Internet searching d0c515b9f4

Summer temperatures can reach up to 40°C (104°F) or even higher, and it can take just 20 minutes or less for the mercury to rise to 32°C or 90°F. As the temperature rises, so does the intensity of the steamy heat - but it isn't only during the hot days that you need to be alert for condensation. After sunset, summer is when the first rains of the year also fall. As the air cools, it condenses, and this
