Flashdeli Crack Free [Latest] 2022

Flashdeli Cracked Version is a simple to use application designed to offer you a means for quick communication between yourself and other stations in your network. The software works as an instant messaging client for a LAN or an intranet configuration. The software allows you to easily send instant messages to other stations connected to the network. Setting up network communications and messaging partners FlashDeli can automatically detect if the computer you install it on is connected to a local area network or an intranet system. It is designed to work exclusively on private networks, which means you cannot use it as an instant messaging client over the Internet. Moreover, it can detect the other stations that are connected to the same network and display them in the column on the right. Simply select the desired station you wish to communicate with and a chat window is instantly opened. You may set a nickname for your computer, so it can easily be recognized across the network, use the special statuses or chat without a nickname. The software supports creating several shortcut texts, that you can use when communicating with another user, or auto-messages that are sent by the computer when you are away from the computer. Software functions and configurations The software runs in the background, but you can maximize its interface by pressing the designated hotkey combination. Additionally, you may tweak certain options, such as enable/disable window pop up when receiving a message or activate/deactivate sounds. Several filters are available for you to set, such as ignore messages containing blacklisted phrases, receive notification when a broadcast message is sent or confirm message deletion. Additionally, you can configure the ignore list, auto-answer messages, or the maximum number of messages displayed in the list. Reliable means for quick communication FlashDeli is a reliable tool that makes communicating with other users from your private network an easy task. The software can automatically detect the LAN or intranet connection available on your computer, as well as identify all the other stations from the same network. The LAN data can be automatically refreshed or reloaded each time you open the software. Flashdeli Overview: Contact us Questions, information and complaints You can contact us at Support@sendone.com.
