TransMac Crack 12.6 Review..Q: drop function by name How to drop a function by name? something like this CREATE OR REPLACE FUNCTION my_fn() RETURNS TRIGGER AS $$ begin raise notice '%', now(); end; $$ LANGUAGE plpgsql; CREATE TRIGGER my_trig FOR UPDATE ON my_table WHERE my_column = 1 EXECUTE PROCEDURE my_fn(); I need to drop the function after some time. I tried with DROP_TRIGGER_BY_NAME however it returns an error: ERROR: function my_fn does not exist A: drag_drop_trigger(text) DROP FUNCTION my_fn(); DROP TRIGGER my_trig; Sony has been fighting an uphill battle to regain control of its image. The Japanese media and entertainment company has been dogged by criticism of its handling of the PlayStation Network outage that affected millions of customers last year. In September, the company again faced criticism for failing to remedy problems with its online music service. Those problems, as well as questions surrounding the company's handling of its long-running, $1.6 billion trademark lawsuit against Google, have clearly cost it credibility. Part of Sony's ongoing struggles are coming from its own manufacturing process. Sony often pushes out new, high-end devices that sell well, but without the same quality, or care, as Sony's previous products. At CES this week, one long-standing issue that will apparently never be resolved by Sony -- the PS3's overheating problem -- was brought up

Q: Editing menu hierarchies I'm trying to update the hierarchy of a menu. Originally it was set up as below: Menu 1 Menu 2 Menu 3 But, after a number of updates the hierarchy is: Menu 1 Menu 2 Menu 3 Menu 4 Menu 5 Menu 6 Menu 7 Menu 8 Menu 9 However, when I edit the menu tree and do a "merge records" or "split records" on menu 5, I get the following: Menu 1 Menu 2 Menu 3 Menu 4 Menu 6 Menu 5 Menu 7 Menu 8 Menu 9 This is messed up. I have no idea why it is doing this. I simply want to be able to edit the menu tree as shown in the first image.

A: It is impossible to move a Menu reference to a sub-menu of another. For example, if you re-order your main menu to be: Main -Menu 1 - -Menu 2 - - -Menu 3 - - - -Menu 4 Then I would be able to re-order my sub-menus as below Main -Menu 1 -Menu 2 -Menu 3 -Menu 4 But I cannot move Menu 2 from Main to the top level of your menu structure. You could try using a Hierarchy to solve your problem, but I'm not sure how else to tackle your problem. Hierarchy is not exactly the same thing as a menu, though. You may want to look at my answer for more information. Edit: Another thing you can do is to re-order your menus entirely, including the child menu. In a hierarchy, you could have Main, Other and Main - (Other) but you could also have Main - [other-menu] and Parent - [other-menu]. Then you could edit your hierarchy to be Main -Other -Main - Other Now if you want to move Other down under
