Southern California Edison Inc., the state's largest utility, said it had restored power to over 4.4 million customers, just as new fires threatened to take the lives of the more than 400 people who have been fighting the fires in Southern California. The utility said there were fires in five counties as well as Los Angeles, Ventura and San Diego counties. "The fire behavior is extreme," State Fire Inspector Dave Satterberg told reporters. "A lot of the homes have been lost in this fire."Methods for assessing the cellular and molecular mechanisms of drug action in the postnatal nervous system are being developed.
